Johnny's memory

Retrobo Story

This is a story from just a little in the future of our world...

A comet fell on Earth, shattering it into pieces.

Bits of Earth came to be individual stars,

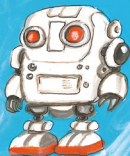

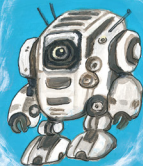

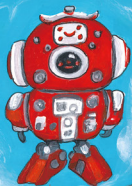

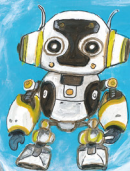

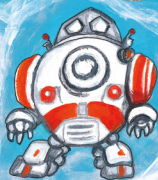

and like the Moon, revolving around Earth.

Nature came back to life,

and people who miraculously survived were now living with robots.

While people were receiving help from robots,

the robots were feeling the joy of living together with people.

Johnny was fixing a broken robot like any other day.

But this one was familiar.

From inside its stomach, retro-robots that his son Runway used to play with came out.

One after another, came the robot toys.

These toys may be the reason why it's broken, thought Johnny. This made him sad.

Johnny lived on the moon.

The elderly had moved to the moon, and most of them were living peacefully at their own pace.

In Planet Theaite, Johnny and his friends were putting work into AI robot research and development.

Johnny's team even created a spaceship that travels among Earth and other planets.

Johnny used to work on Planet Theaite. However, he got deported to the moon because he opposed the idea of AI being used for the development of military robots.

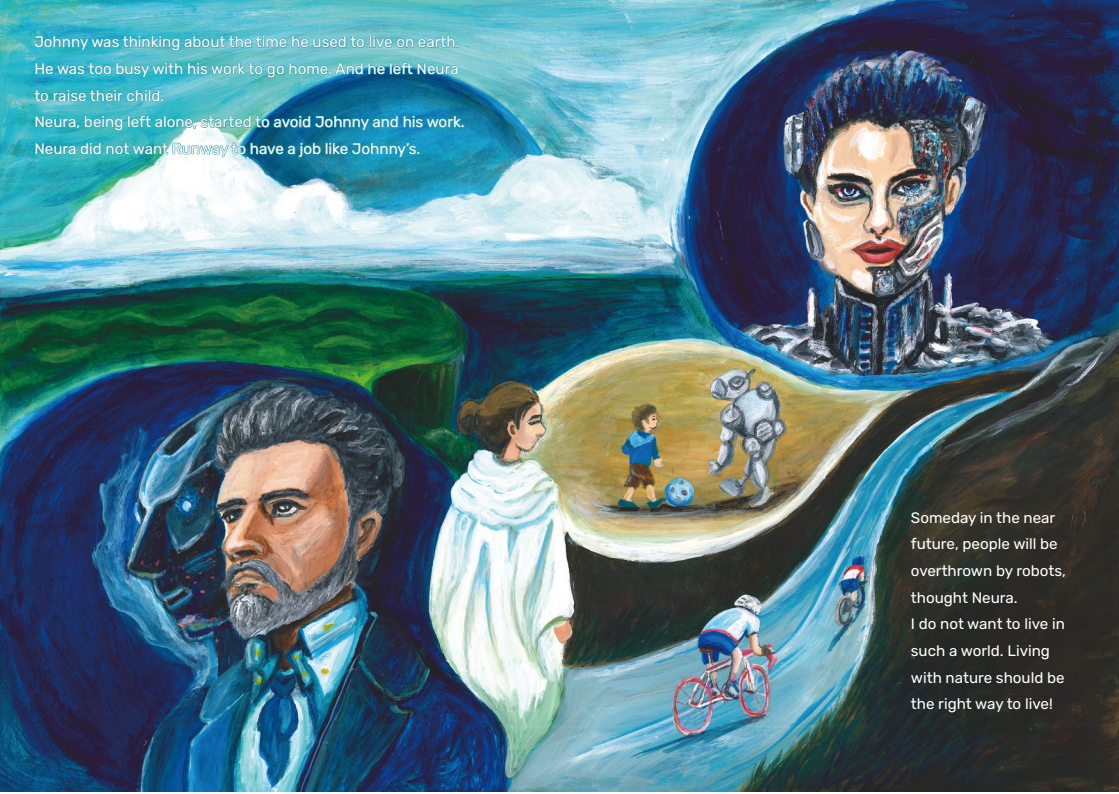

☆Moon

Johnny was thinking about the time he used to live on earth.
He was too busy with his work to go home. And he left Neura to raise their child.

Neura, being left alone, started to avoid Johnny and his work.

Neura did not want Runway to have a job like Johnny's.

Someday in the near future, people will be overthrown by robots, thought Neura.

I do not want to live in such a world. Living with nature should be the right way to live!
